9. Background: In September of 2005, Court Administration came to Facilities Management seeking more space in the Lee County Government Building in Cape Coral. Court Services needed to be on one floor in the building so that area could be secured. Since the building is occupied by other county offices that serve the public on a daily basis, it was evident that Court Services be relocated to the third floor as most of that floor is currently courtrooms and jury areas. A plan for the re-organization of the tenants was created, and it became necessary to relocate the Clerk of the Courts out of that building. The Supervisor of Elections office also needed more space. Since the proposed lease space contained enough space for both departments, and was across the street from the Government Building, a lease was negotiated.
